RANCH RUN DOWN

Nov/Dec: In a word SNOW!
We had about 10 ft of snow;
a challenge for us, but the buffs didn't care. The road dept pushed over the fence and built a snow/ice bridge for the buffs (not good); but our holidays were happy!

Jan/Feb: Still piles of snow!
Dave spent lots of tractor time cleaning roads, and repairing fences. Another buffalo meat company closed
so we worked hard to serve many new customers.

Mar/Apr: New word – gravel!
About 700 tons is what it took to repair all our roads.
Our hounds have been learning to “trail” (actually they already know, we have to learn what they're doing).

May: New buffalo babies, lots of green grass, and beautiful wild flowers thanks to a lot of nice rainy days.

Piles of snow in the front !

Ranch Road to the Buffs – 6 ft high fence is buried !

Since 1996, we've been in the buffalo business... We've worked hard and watched many buffalo operations come & unfortunately go... Raising buffalo is the easy part (you just need good fences, and good land/grass)... Running a buffalo meat business is more difficult... USDA processing companies are few and far between, and they charge lots more for processing buffalo... Knowing how many buffalo you need for meat for a given year is not an exact science... And as a small family company it's often hard to compete with “the big boys”... Recently we have had to raise a few of our prices (mainly ground & sausage); but here at Buffalo Groves, where we are really 100% grassfed, we are holding our own; and that's THANKS TO OUR CUSTOMERS!!! We appreciate your business!!

Thanks for supporting our Family Buffalo Ranch!
